HOMEHERO FIRE EXTINGUISHER

It's the Natalie Portman of portable fire-fighting: smart and hot. Wireless networking, a first for home fire-safety systems, gives family members in the far reaches of the house a head start. When this extinguisher is removed from its dock or a smoke alarm is activated, all the alarms throughout the residence ring. That's important, considering that a fire doubles in size every minute. And because the extinguisher looks so good, you're more likely to keep it handy. Available next summer. $25 and up, homehero.net

BELKIN N1 VISION WIRELESS ROUTER

Know thine enemy. That's the principle behind the N1 Vision, the best wireless router we've tested. As with most routers, you can block broadband moochers entirely with a password. But it's more fun to watch the LCD to see who's piggybacking on your pipeline. Even more useful: You can restrict certain PCs (like your kid's) from accessing the Web at certain times. There's no faster router on the market. The N1 uses the new 802.11n protocol, which is up to five times faster than 802.11g. And it has a range of 1,600 feet. $200, belkin.com

BOSCH 4100DG-09 PORTABLE TABLE SAW

Every 9 minutes in this country, a table saw turns on its owner. The number one cause: wood catching the rear of the blade and being propelled back at the user at up to 100 mph. This portable table saw is the first with an integrated riving knife—that is, a piece of metal behind the blade that prevents the wood from kicking. Another first: a digital fence that automatically (and accurately, in our tests) sizes up your cuts to within 1/32 inch. $680, bosch.com
